

Hello All,

Well, I've been messing around with the site this week and I've been having fun with it! Nathaniel, being a visually oriented individual, I love that capability to change the theme of the actual page. After going through several of them, and maybe it's just because the current theme is what I'm accustomed to, I prefer the orange. The orange and blue are complementary (and therefore high contrast) colors and make for a strong combination. I think our best goal, if everyone's happy with the current theme, is to play off it to make a connection between all pages. What we really need to work on in terms of this theme is the landing page.

As you will note, above I have mocked up what a potential logo could look like. As my first suggestion, one aspect that can help tie all your pages together would be an identity that's recognizable and consistent with the theme of the pages. This doesn't have to be the final version, or anything like it (we could use the mythological character somehow) but this is just something to think about. We could then link the logo on each page to the landing page.

Now as for the professionals, not being completely adept at understanding the specifics about this project, I'm not exactly sure what the professionals need to see on their page. That being said, I'm going to have to leave that up to you in terms of layout.

Now, for the high school students, I think that the simpler the better. You've got a good 'simple' version going, but the furthest we can take this to the simple end, the more user friendly this page will be for students and their teachers.
